Topics Covered:

- Accreditation of engineering and technology education
- Assessment practices which impacts quality of engineering and technology education
- Best practices and case studies/examples in quality assurance of engineering and technology education
- Competency-based engineering and technology education
- Evaluations, feedback, and surveys to improve quality of engineering and technology education
- Global mobility of engineering and technology professions and its impact on the quality of engineering and technology education
- Graduate attributes, competencies and skills in engineering and technology education
- Impact of internationalization/globalization on quality assurance of engineering and technology education
- Issues of international recognition of qualifications in engineering and technology education
- Issues of quality assurance in distance, flexible, and online engineering and technology education
- Outcomes-based engineering and technology education
- Problem-based and project-based engineering and technology education
- Quality assurance aspects affecting engineering and technology education (e.g. student questionnaires, curriculum design, case studies, etc)
- Research findings and results which directly or indirectly impact quality assurance of engineering and technology education
- Theoretical analysis of quality and quality initiatives in engineering and technology education
- Theories, practices, procedures, and methodologies in learning/teaching and pedagogical aspects of engineering and technology education

SUBMISSION INFORMATION

Prospective authors should note that only original and previously unpublished articles will be considered. INTERESTED AUTHORS MUST CONSULT THE JOURNAL'S GUIDELINES FOR MANUSCRIPT SUBMISSIONS at <http://www.igi-global.com/journals/guidelines-for-submission.aspx> PRIOR TO SUBMISSION.
