

Handbook of Research on Comparative Approaches to the Digital Age Revolution in Europe and the Americas

Part of the Advances in Electronic Government, Digital Divide, and Regional Development (AEGDDRD) Book Series

Brasilina Passarelli (School of Communications and Arts – ECA of the University of São Paulo - USP, Brazil), Joseph Straubhaar (The University of Texas at Austin, USA), and Aurora Cuevas-Cerveró (Complutense University of Madrid, Spain)

Description:

The way we talk, work, learn, and think has been greatly shaped by modern technology. These lifestyle changes have made digital literacy the new written literacy, where those who are not able to use computers are unable to function and perform everyday tasks.

The Handbook of Research on Comparative Approaches to the Digital Age Revolution in Europe and the Americas explores the new ways that technology is shaping our society and the advances it is bringing, along with potential drawbacks, such as human jobs being replaced by computers.

This handbook features a broad scope of research-based articles on topics including, but not limited to, computational thinking, e-portfolios, e-citizenship, digital inclusion policies, and information literacy as a form of community empowerment.

Readers:

This expansive handbook is an essential reference source for students, academics, and professionals in the fields of communication, information technology, sociology, social policy, and education; it will also prove of interest to policymakers, funding-agencies, and digital inclusion program developers.
