

Management Education for Global Leadership

Part of the Advances in Human Resources Management and Organizational Development Book Series

Neeta Baporikar (HP-GSB, Namibia University of Science and Technology, Namibia)

Description:

An individual's success as a manager is largely dependent on the effectiveness of the training and education they received. However, as new technologies and management techniques emerge within the field, it becomes necessary to evaluate ways to optimize management education programs.

Management Education for Global Leadership examines the complexities and challenges present in improvising the learning process in education programs. Highlights real-life experiences, theoretical concepts, and practical applications within the field, as well as the role of information technologies in management education and training programs.

Readers:

This publication is a critical reference for scholars, practitioners, policy makers, students, politicians, and managers.
