

International Dimensions of Educational Leadership and Management for Economic Growth

Icarbord Tshabangu (Leeds Trinity University, UK)

Description:

Educational leadership and management shape the quality and effectiveness of global education systems, with implications for national and global economic growth. As education becomes influenced by globalization, leaders and policymakers must navigate diverse cultural, political, and economic contexts while promoting innovation, equity, and accountability. International perspectives reveal varied approaches to leadership and governance, offering valuable insights into how strategic decision-making and resource management can improve educational outcomes and workforce readiness. By understanding and integrating global best practices, educational leaders may foster systems that enhance learning while contributing to sustainable economic development.

International Dimensions of Educational Leadership and Management for Economic Growth explores the critical roles of leadership and management in education, offering conceptual, theoretical, and practical frameworks that address global and cultural perspectives in educational leadership. It examines how leadership influences educational governance, development, and competitiveness. This book covers topics such as digital technology, global business, and social media, and is a useful resource for educators, economists, business owners, academicians, researchers, and scientists.
