Context, Policy, and Practices in Indigenous and Cultural Entrepreneurship

Part of the Advances in Human Resources Management and Organizational Development Book Series

Wilfred Isak April (International University Management, Namibia), Anthony Adeyanju (International University of Management, Namibia) and Blessing Tafirenyika (International University of Management, Namibia)

Description:

In the implementation of smart cities, sensors and actuators that produce and consume enormous amounts of data in a variety of formats and ontologies will be incorporated into the system as a whole. The data produced by the participating devices need to be adequately categorized and connected to reduce duplication and conflicts. Newer edge computing techniques are needed to manage enormous amounts of data quickly and avoid overloading the cloud infrastructure.

Context, Policy, and Practices in Indigenous and Cultural Entrepreneurship considers the most recent developments in several crucial software services and cyber infrastructures that are important to smart cities. Covering key topics such as artificial intelligence, smart data, big data, and computer science, this premier reference source is ideal for industry professionals, government officials, policymakers, scholars, researchers, academicians, instructors, and students.
