Handbook of Research on Instructional Systems and Educational Technology

Part of the Advances in Educational Technologies and Instructional Design Book Series

Terry Kidd (University of Houston-Downtown, USA) and Lonnie R. Morris, Jr. (The Chicago School of Professional Psychology, USA)

Description:
Incorporating new methods and approaches in learning environments is imperative to the development of education systems. By enhancing learning processes, education becomes more attainable at all levels.

The Handbook of Research on Instructional Systems and Educational Technology is an essential reference source for the latest scholarly research on new models, trends, and data for solving instructional and learning challenges in education. Featuring extensive coverage on a wide range of topics such as distance education, online learning, and blended learning, this publication is ideally designed for academicians, practitioners, researchers, and students seeking current research on the latest improvements in instructional systems.

Topics Covered:
- Blended Learning
- Distance Learning
- Game-Based Learning
- Global education
- Modular E-Learning
- Online Learning
- Social Media
- Special Education

Hardcover: $265.00
E-Book: $265.00
Hardcover + E-Book: $320.00
Table of Contents

Foreword

Preface

Chapter 1
Millennials, Digital Natives, and the Emergence of New Educational Spaces
John Roberts, Buffalo State College – State University of New York, USA
Terry T Kidd, University of Houston – Downtown, USA

Chapter 2
Mastering Distance Education in the Digital Age
Kijpokin Kasemsap, Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University, Thailand

Chapter 3
Distance and Online Learning
Sema Kalaian, Eastern Michigan University, USA

Chapter 4
A Summary of Four Key Issues Affecting Distance Education
Waylon Keith Lindsay, North Carolina State University, USA

Chapter 5
Blended Learning and Distance Education: Enablers and Barriers
Amir Manzoor, Bahria University, Pakistan

Chapter 6
Blended Learning in Higher Education: A Developing Country Perspective
Amir Manzoor, Bahria University, Pakistan

Chapter 7
The Rhetoric of Fear: Voices and Stories Told of Faculty Who Engage in Online Teaching
Terry T Kidd, University of Houston – Downtown, USA

Chapter 8
Structuring Online Instruction by Dynamic Design, Delivery, and Assessment
Selma Koc, Cleveland State University, USA
Marius Boboc, Cleveland State University, USA

Chapter 9
Human Performance Technology and the Effects on Web-Based Instruction: Performance Efficiency
Esra Ayça Güzeldereli, Afyon Kocatepe University, Turkey
Utku Kose, Usak University, Turkey
Ashlan Tüfekci, Gazi University, Turkey

Chapter 10
Defining and Designing Responsive Online Professional Development (ROPD): A Framework to Support Curriculum Implementation
Jeremy Riel, University of Illinois at Chicago, USA
Kimberly A Lawless, University of Illinois at Chicago, USA
Scott W Brown, University of Connecticut, USA

Chapter 11
Trends and Issues With Massive Open Online Courses
Kijpokin Kasemsap, Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University, Thailand

Chapter 12
Towards the Learning Experience Technology Usability Framework
Veera Kenttäli, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Rebekah Rousi, University of Jyväskylä, Finland
Marja Kankaanrantta, University of Jyväskylä, Finland

Chapter 13
Flipped Classroom: Advanced Issues and Applications
Kijpokin Kasemsap, Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University, Thailand

Chapter 14
Multimedia Active Reading: A Framework for Understanding Learning With Tablet Textbooks
Jennifer Ann Palilionis, Ball State University, USA

Chapter 15
Instructional Strategies for Game-Based Learning
Antonio Santos, Universidad de las Americas Puebla, Mexico

Chapter 16
The Fundamentals of Game-Based Learning
Kijpokin Kasemsap, Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University, Thailand

Chapter 17
Impact of Kinect Exergame on Mental Computation Speed and Achievement
Duygu Mutlu-Bayraktar, Istanbul University, Turkey
Ozgur Yilmaz, Istanbul University, Turkey

Chapter 18
Instructional Design for Simulations in Special Education Virtual Learning Spaces
Kimberly K Floyd, West Virginia University, USA
Neal Shambaugh, West Virginia University, USA

Chapter 19
How Virtual Work Informs Virtual Learning
Lonnie R Morris, The Chicago School for Professional Psychology, USA
Christine Morse, The Chicago School of Professional Psychology, USA
Ta Karra Jones, The Chicago School of Professional Psychology, USA

Chapter 20
Modular E-Learning Course Design
Alaattin Parlaçlı, Gülhane Military Medical Academy, Turkey

Chapter 21
Personal Learning Environments
Mary Hricko, Kent State University – Geauga, USA

Chapter 22
Gender Difference in Perception and Use of Social Media Tools
Youmei Liu, University of Houston, USA

Chapter 23
Social Media and Technology May Change the Culture of Rape on College Campuses
Sherri L Niblett, Delaware Technical Community College, USA
Melissa L Rakes, Delaware Technical Community College, USA

Chapter 24
Social Media, Mobile Technology, and New Learning Opportunities: Implications for Social Justice and Educational Spaces in Schools
Terry T Kidd, University of Houston – Downtown, USA
Jame’l R Hodges, Tennessee State University, USA

Chapter 25
Mobile Learning
Kadir Demir, Anadolu University, Turkey
Chapters:

Chapter 26
Teaching Through Mobile Technology: A Reflection From High School Studies in South Africa
Mmaki Jantjies, University of the Western Cape, South Africa
Mike Joy, University of Warwick, UK

Chapter 27
Exploring the Role of Mobile Learning in Global Education
Kijpokin Kasemsap, Suan Sunandha Rajabhat University, Thailand

Chapter 28
Using the Flipped Classroom to Improve Knowledge Creation of Master’s-Level Students in Engineering
Sachin Ahuja, Chitkara University Research and Innovation Network, India

Chapter 29
The Role of Computational Thinking in the Preparation of Pre-Service Teachers
Bekir Mugayitoglu, Duquesne University, USA
Joseph C Kush, Duquesne University, USA

Chapter 30
Wearable Computers
Byron Havard, University of West Florida, USA
Megan Podsiad, University of West Florida, USA

Chapter 31
RSS and Syndication for Educators
Keith Stuart Webster, Royal Roads University, Canada

Chapter 32
Visiting Technological Pedagogical and Content Knowledge (TPACK): Issues and Challenges for Teachers’ Professional Development
Chien Yu, Mississippi State University, USA
Dana Pomykal Franz, Mississippi State University, USA

Chapter 33
Strategies to Support the Faculty Adoption of Technology for Student Success Initiatives
Phyllis K Brooks Collins, Delaware State University, USA

Chapter 34
The Impact of Emerging Technology on Leadership Development
Patrick N Connally, Connelly & Associates, LLC, USA
Lonnie R Morris, The Chicago School for Professional Psychology, USA

Terry Kidd is a seasoned higher education leader with over fifteen years of professional experience in workforce development, curriculum management, and faculty and organization development, and educational technology innovation. As college faculty, Dr. Kidd taught courses in the discipline Management Information Systems and Training and Development. He has given numerous workshops and seminars on topics related to educational innovation, technology and society, social science research methods and computing/informatics. He holds a Ph.D. from the Texas A&M University and graduate degrees in instructional technology (M.Ed.) and information systems (M.Sc.) from the University of Houston. Dr. Kidd holds national level credentials in change management, workforce development and is a State of Texas credentialed mediator. Currently, Dr. Kidd serves as Dean of the Division of Extended Learning at the Houston Community College, the largest continuing education operation in the nation. Dr. Kidd has published over 15 research papers in scholarly journals including Journal of Educational Media and Hypermedia, International Journal of E-Learning, Educational Technology, Journal of Science Education and Technology, and the International Journal of Information Technology Project Management, to name a few. Further Dr. Kidd to as written seven books related to technology management, social informatics, online learning, and adult learning in the digital age. He has been quoted on Amazon.com and featured on ABC News as an expert on the social and ethical ramifications of computer hacking. Dr. Kidd has been recently honored as a Houston Business Journal 40 Under 40 Class of 2016 honoree and the 2016 Outstanding Alumni Award from the Texas A&M University. He is a proud member of the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Incorporated.

Lonnie R. Morris, Jr., Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor of Organizational Leadership and a seasoned higher education professional with nearly 20 years of leadership and service to colleges, universities, education organizations. He leads and supports consultations for education and corporate clients in the areas of change management, leadership development, technology implementation, and diversity & inclusion. He has extensive experience in university administration as a senior enrollment officer with expertise in the areas of admissions, financial aid, data analysis, marketing research, change management, strategic leadership, and talent development. As director and vice president, Dr. Morris has managed multi-million dollar operating budgets and as many as 5 operational units. Dr. Morris has also served as a senior consultant for higher education and leadership for multiple firms. As a professor, Dr. Morris teaches adult students at the undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral levels in organizational and educational leadership. In addition to teaching courses in change management, group & team leadership, virtual leadership, leadership theory and business communication, he has also developed courses in assessment & data analytics and organizational effectiveness. Dr. Morris is an expert in leadership, ethics, organization development and e-learning.