

Examining the Role of National Promotional Banks in the European Economy: Emerging Research and Opportunities

Part of the Advances in Finance, Accounting, and Economics Book Series

Iustina Alina Boitan (Bucharest University of Economic Studies, Romania)

Description:

Banking entities have significant involvement and impact on the structure of a nation's economy. By utilizing the proper strategies and available data, banks can act as an effective financial instrument for economic enhancement.

Examining the Role of National Promotional Banks in the European Economy: Emerging Research and Opportunities is a pivotal reference source for the latest perspectives on the performance and evaluation of National Promotional Banks (NPBs) within European economic contexts and their impact on social welfare. Features relevant coverage across innovative topics, such as funding, productivity, and financial structure indicators.

Readers:

This publication is ideally designed for professionals, academics, graduate students, and practitioners seeking investigations on the European NPB business model.

ISBN: 9781522518457

Release Date: November, 2016

Copyright: 2017

Pages: 184

Topics Covered:

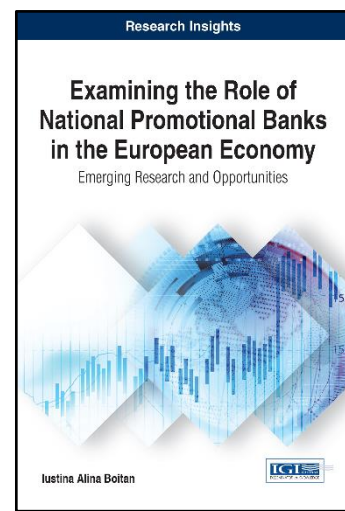

- Bank Funding
- Cluster Analysis
- Efficiency and Productivity
- Financial Performance
- Financial Structure Indicators
- Nonparametric Estimations
- Small and Medium Enterprises

Hardcover +
Free E-Book:

$120.00

E-Book Only:

$120.00

Order Information

Phone: 717-533-8845 x100

Toll Free: 1-866-342-6657

Fax: 717-533-8661 or 717-533-7115

Online Bookstore: www.igi-global.com

Table of Contents

Preface

Chapter 1. National promotional banks in European Union: definition and business models' peculiarity

1.1. National promotional banks' role and definition

1.2. Specificities of the promotional banks' business model

Chapter 2. National promotional banks' contribution to European Union countries' economic and social welfare

2.1. Policy-makers' view on NPBs capacity to pursue economic and social goals

2.2. Empirical evidences from existing literature on the impact exerted by NPBs on financial and economic fundamentals

2.3. Recent involvement of NPBs in determining social and economic fundamentals

Chapter 3. Exploratory assessment of National promotional banks' business models' resemblance

3.1. Cluster Analysis methodology and variables' selection

3.2. Identification and interpretation of NPBs clustering

Chapter 4. Nonparametric estimation of National promotional banks' efficiency and productivity

4.1. Measuring NPBs relative efficiency – a Data Envelopment Analysis approach

4.2. Assessing NPBs total factor productivity – a Malmquist Index approach

Chapter 5. Financial business models with social impact - potential candidates for National promotional banks

5.1. The typology of social impact financial business models

5.2. Social impact financial institutions' involvement in providing EU financing to end-users

Conclusion

References

Appendices

Iustina Alina Boitan is Assoc. professor, Ph.D. at the Faculty of Finance and Banking from the Bucharest University of Economic Studies (Romania). She is member of several professional bodies, such as the Center of Financial and Monetary Research, within the Bucharest University of Economic Studies, Romania (since 2008) and the Monetary Research Center within the University of National and World Economy, Bulgaria (research fellow since 2015). She has been granted the Georgescu Roegen award for excellence in scientific research, concretized in papers published in journals indexed Thomson Reuters (Bucharest University of Economic Studies, 2014). Her research interests focus on banking systems' efficiency and competition, assessment of banking systems' distress, quantitative supervisory tools (such as the development of early warning systems), ethical or socially responsible banks. She holds in-depth expertise in quantitative methods applied to financial system.