

International Journal of

Signs and Semiotic Systems (IJSSS)

ISSN: 2155-5028; EISSN: 2155-5036

Established 2011; Published Semi-Annually

Editor(s)-in-Chief: Tim French (University of Bedfordshire, UK)

IJSSS combines interdisciplinary approaches on theoretical, empirical, formal, and computational research that contributes to the design and synthesis of semiotic systems, including biological evidence and evolutionary and philosophical frameworks. This journal publishes original research on the design, analysis, and synthesis of semiotic processes in biological and artificial systems and encompasses technological applications on computational modeling of semiotic production, computing, interpretation, and communication. Articles included in this publication present comparative approaches to semiotic processes including evolutionary, synthetic and analytic perspectives.

Topics Covered:

- Adaptive advantage of iconic, indexical, and symbolic systems and processes
- Biologically inspired models of semiotic systems
- Collaborative semiotic processes and applications
- Embodied and situated semiotic processes
- Emergence and evolution of semiotic processes
- Evolution of information interpretation systems
- Meaning
- Meaningful text mining
- Semiotic dynamics and complexity
- Semiotic systems
- Sign and symbol grounding
- Sign production, computing, interpretation, and communication
- Societal and organisational semiotic processes
- Technological semiotic artifacts
- Umwelt, semiotic landscapes, and niches

SUBMISSION INFORMATION

Prospective authors should note that only original and previously unpublished articles will be considered. Interested authors must consult the journal's guidelines for manuscript submissions at www.igi-global.com/publish/resources prior to submission. All article submissions will be forwarded to the Editorial Review Board for double-blind, peer review.

All submissions and inquiries should be directed to the attention of:
